Scientist Hits JFK's Advisory Committee

Landing of Robots On Mars Predicted Sometime In 1966

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The President's Science Advisory Committee has drawn sharp criticism from Dr. James Van Allen, discoverer of the radiation effects of a nuclear test last July.

David Beckler, executive secretary of the committee, answered that "the committee is a highly competent scientific group with a good reputation for hearing all views."

Van Allen's remarks were made Sunday at the closing sessions of the 129th meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

In other developments at the meeting:

A space agency official announced the United States plans to land an expeditionary force of robot detectives on Mars in 1966 to search for life there. He described the ingenious devices being developed or studied to carry out the assignment.

Space doctors weighing the risks stresses and safety factors for the Apollo moon flights expected by 1970 reported there will be an arbitrary retirement age for astronauts flying to the moon. They said this would not be in terms of years but in exposure to penetrating radiation in space.

The Van Allen dispute grew out of a Science Advisory Committee report in August which implied that a nuclear test last July 250 miles above Johnston Island in the Pacific had created an artificial radiation belt that would last long and was stronger than had been predicted.

Evidence from more than a half dozen satellites now passing through the artificial radiation belts indicates the committee statement was wrong, Van Allen

JFK, Jackie Will Attend Party Tonight

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President and Mrs. Kennedy celebrate the arrival of the new year tonight much like many other Americans—at a midnight champagne party with friends.

Their hosts for the second year in a row are Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Wrightsman, Palm Beach neighbors and close friends.

Wrightsman is a wealthy oil man and art collector. His wife, Jan, who collects antique furnishings, is a member of Mrs. Kennedy's White House Fine Arts Committee.

Their party is one of the major social events of the holiday season in this resort city.

The President and his wife have to go only a few doors down the road from their borrowed ocean-front villa to get to the New Year's Eve party, where Lester Lanin's society orchestra will play.

The President has been in Palm Beach since Dec. 21, getting lots of sun, taking a daily cruise on the presidential yacht and working with his advisers on budget, legislative and tax matters.

Kennedy is not expected to return to Washington until Jan. 8, in time to join in ceremonies opening the exhibition of the "Mona Lisa." The famed masterpiece has been loaned by the French government for showings at the National Gallery of Art in Washington and the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City.

Salem Man Wounded As Rifle Discharges

A bullet from an accidentally fired .22 caliber rifle grazed the left leg of Chester Pruden, 47, of 145 W. Pershing St. Saturday at 5 p.m., causing a minor injury.

Pruden, who was treated at Central Clinic and released, told police the weapon went off when he knocked it from the table onto the floor during cleaning.

C&O Given Okay To Acquire B&O

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission set up one of the nation's biggest railroad mergers today by authorizing the Chesapeake & Ohio to gain control of the Baltimore & Ohio.

School Boards To Reorganize

9 Units To Convene Early In January

Salem and eight area Boards of Education will convene in early January for their annual reorganization sessions to elect officers and in some cases set new regular monthly meeting dates.

Several of the boards will combine the reorganization with business which would normally have been dealt with at the regular meeting time.

Ohio law says that Boards of Education should hold their reorganization meetings the first Monday of the New Year, although there is some flexibility in the matter.

Leading the reorganization in the district is the Columbiana board which will forsake New Year's Day bowl games that evening to elect officers, according to president Richard Reash.

The meeting, to be held at 7:30 p.m. at Southside School, will be brief and regular business will be held for the Jan. 16 meeting.

Other board members are Stanley Yeager, Willard Ferrall and Dale Young. Walter Foerch is clerk.

The Greenford Board of Education will also precede the recommended legal date by holding its election on Jan. 4 at 8:30 p.m. at the school. Members are Dave Justice, president; Paul Garrett, vice-president; Robert Kenreich, Clarence Olin and Roland McIntyre. Albert Lang is clerk.

The majority of local schools, however, are holding their reorganization Jan. 7. These include Salem, Leetonia, West Branch, Beaver Local, United Local and Western Reserve.

Roster of Board Members
Following are the members of these boards and their clerks:

Salem: O. A. Naragon, president; Gail C. Herron, vice president; Atty. Bryce W. Kendall, Dr. Ralph Starbuck, Robert W. Campbell, Clerk W. N. King.

Leetonia: Dr. P. A. Beaver, president; Dr. Guy Nicolette, vice president; Joe Woods, Wayne Holloway, Dr. Paul Conrad, Clerk Gladys Gause.

West Branch: Norman Barnett, president; Leland Glass, vice president; Richard Burton, Dr. Fred Jose, John Denny, clerk Rhea Emmons.

Beaver Local: Jack Pozenel, president; Paul Dailey, vice president; R. J. Schiff, Arnold Green, George Wilkinson, clerk Harry Greenwood.

came as two other big Eastern railroad unification plans were being processed by the commission.

These would unite the New York Central with the Pennsylvania and the Nickel Plate with the Norfolk & Western.

The commission emphasized that the C&O-B&O case involves only an acquisition of control by an exchange of stock. But the C&O had made quite clear that this was intended as a preliminary step to merger of its operations and those of the B&O.

The ICC said the stock-exchange deal between the C&O and B&O would strengthen the financial condition of the B&O and both carriers will continue to operate as separate railroads.

"Approval of the application will not foreclose our opportunity to consider the lawfulness of any future merger application," the commission added, "nor will it prevent interested parties from raising objections to proposals of that application when it is presented to the commission for its approval."

But railroad industry observers had acknowledged beforehand that approval of the C&O-B&O control plan would be a major step toward the proposed development of three major rail systems in the East through merger.

The C&O operates about 5,001 miles of railroad in a generally V-shaped pattern running north-east and southeast from Chicago. One arm runs through Detroit to Buffalo, N.Y. The other extends through Cincinnati to Newport News, Va. and Washington. The

Cool Reception Given Castro's Release Offer

Cuban Leader Asks Flights Be Resumed To Island Nation

HAVANA (AP) — A cool reception greeted today the Castro government's offer to let more Cubans go to the United States if Pan American Airways resumed flights between Havana and Miami.

A Pan American spokesman in New York said the line had little desire to resume normal service to Cuba. He said the company had lost heavily on its flights to Cuba in recent years because of restrictions and limited travel to the island.

The State Department banned private and commercial flights to Cuba during the Cuban crisis. The ban is still on although it was lifted temporarily when the Cuban invasion prisoners were ransomed and flown out.

"The revolutionary government," said a communique from Prime Minister Fidel Castro's office, "will maintain its policy to authorize the departure from the country for all those desiring to leave as soon as the Pan American Airways resumes its flights to Cuba which it suspended by a decision of North American authorities."

Official sources denied reports that Castro had agreed to allow more relatives of the Bay of Pigs invaders to follow the prisoners to the United States. James B. Donovan, the New York attorney who negotiated the release of the prisoners and nearly 1,000 of their relatives, said Saturday in Lake Placid, N.Y., that Castro had agreed to let an additional 2,500 relatives go to the United States.

Donovan said as each installment of the $53 million worth of ransom food and drugs for the prisoners was delivered, another group of relatives would be released.

The Cuban communique also denied a report by Donovan that Castro might go to the United Nations to negotiate the release of 21 Americans imprisoned in Cuba. Havana radio ridiculed President Kennedy's appearance in Miami Saturday before the Bay of

Five Injured In Road Mishaps

Two Drivers Cited By Highway Patrol

A Salem motorist was among five persons injured in four Saturday traffic accidents, two of which were directly attributable to patches of ice. Two drivers were cited.

Donald Warren, 35, of 1243 Mound St. was treated by a local doctor for abrasions and lacerations of the knees, the left arm and possible internal injuries after a head-on collision at 8:35 a. m.

The Lisbon barracks of the State Highway Patrol said Warren's car was hit by another driven by Harrison Keller, 52, of Ohio Ave., Sebring, on Route 62, one mile east of Route 173. Keller, traveling east, tried to pass a slow-moving tractor-trailer and was unable to return to his lane in time to avoid the crash with Warren's westbound auto, the patrol said.

The Sebring motorist was cited for driving left of center.

Others injured, all passengers in a car that skidded on rough ice at 1:15 p.m., were:

John Kenefick, 75, of Steubenville, lacerations of the head and left eyelid and possible fractured skull.

Mrs. Catherine Crossan, 48, of Steubenville, bruised knee and ankle.

Michelle Westfall, 16, of Steubenville, bruised legs.

Terrence Kenefick, 36, of E. Orange, N. J., lacerated lip.

John Kenefick is listed in fair condition at East Liverpool Hospital where the others were treated and released.

The younger Kenefick lost control of his car on ice on Route 7, 4 1/2 miles north of Route 30. The patrol said the auto then went off the highway and struck an embankment.

Cars driven by Glenn Harris, 65, of 929 Franklin Ave. and Shirley Short, 28, of RD 1, Hanoverton, collided at 4:45 p.m. on Depot Rd., 4 1/2 miles south of Salem.

Harris, traveling north, turned into the left lane in preparation for making a left turn and was struck by Short's car. The Salem motorist was cited for driving left of center.

A ridge of slush caused a car driven by Ira Findley, 53, of 1520 Westover Drive, Alliance, to go out of control and strike a mailbox at 11:30 a.m. on Route 30, one-half mile west of Route 451.

Sub-Zero Temperatures Recorded

Eastern U.S. Hit By Wintry Blast

By The Associated Press
Winter unleashed its fury on the Eastern section of the nation in the last hours of the year.

Below-zero temperatures were reported today in many spots. High velocity winds tore down power lines, may have swept a youth off a ferryboat to apparent death, and overturned a motorboat whose operator drowned.

The powerful gusts also ripped off a movie house roof, toppled a huge construction crane and literally blew a river from its bed, stranding numerous boats.

The wintry blast also brought fresh accumulations of snow in some places.

Bangor, Maine, had at least 21 inches of new snow on top of the 15 inches previously fallen. Howling winds piled up drifts as high as 20 feet. The state's third largest city, population 50,000, was "just about paralyzed," according to one newsman.

The Bangor Daily News failed to publish its morning paper today, for the first time since 1899.

The Maine blizzard, termed the worst in a decade, also forced closing of Bangor movie houses for the first time in memory and stranded some 2,000 persons in buses and cars throughout the state.

Maine's Gov. John H. Reed appealed to citizens to take in the refugees.

Kennedy Aide Says $4 Billion Tax Slash Due

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter Heller, chairman of President Kennedy's Council of Economic Advisers, has indicated the tax cut the administration will request of the new Congress will total more than $4 billion.

"What is required is not a small cut of $1 billion or $2 billion, but a substantial cut. A $3 billion or $4 billion cut won't do the job," Heller said in an interview Sunday on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers."

Heller described the still-unveiled administration tax plan as a big balanced program. Included, he said, will be a large reduction in the lower brackets, a cut in tax rates above 65 per cent, more incentive for investment and a reduction in corporate rates.

Opponents of tax reduction have argued that lower levies would balloon the federal deficit. On this point Heller said the choice was further deficits with a weak economy or tax reduction with some temporary deficits and a growing expanding economy.

Heller said the economy was capable of producing $30 billion to $40 billion more real gross domestic product in goods and services without strain. This, plus full employment, would produce some $5 billion more in taxes, he said.

The state of the nation's economy was the subject also of a year end statement Saturday by Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges.

Economic activity has achieved record levels, he said, and the economy is basically sound. But, he added, the rate of forward movement in recent months was slowing down.

More Fighting Reported Near Town of Lamina

Western Diplomat Terms Outbreak Military Promenade

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Fighting was reported continuing today on the outskirts of the town of Kamina, in the north-west Congo.

The U.N. command in Leopoldville said units of a Swedish battalion and a Ghanaian company were under fire.

The world organization claimed the capture of Kamina town Sunday afternoon after Ghanaian troops broke out of the nearby former Belgian base. But messages reaching Leopoldville this morning said three Katangan companies were still in the town Sunday night, the United Nations said.

Ghanaian troops were reported by the United Nations to have captured a road and rail junction about 15 miles from Kamina, while Swedish troops were said to have taken intact about 10 miles of railroad track to the east.

As the U.N. forces consolidated their lightning military victory, the U.N. command gave Katanga pilots until noon Tuesday to surrender themselves and their planes.

A U.N. message to Katangan pilot of both civil and military planes ordered them to fly their Manono between 6 a.m. and noon.

All Katangan planes which have not been surrendered by that time will be destroyed wherever they are found, the U.N. command said.

The United Nations said earlier that Swedish jet fighters had almost completely eliminated the Katanga air force, destroying two British Vampire jets and four or five converted Harvard trainers on the ground.

The United Nations reported that the Belgian mayor of Elisabethville had agreed to cooperate with the world organization. The United Nations claimed on Sunday Belgian public utilities technicians had refused to work for the United Nations but later agreed to work under the auspices of the Red Cross.

Katanga's president, Moise Tshombe, after an overnight visit to neighboring Southern Rhodesia, left Salisbury in a Rhodesian air force transport. His destination was not disclosed, but it was believed he was returning to Katanga.

Tshombe vowed that his secessionist province would fight to the death rather than accept forced reunification with the Congo central government. He said the Katangans "were only defending themselves" and the U.N. "for a long time prepared to attack us."

On the diplomatic front, pressure built up in Britain and Belgium against any attempt to translate the U.N. military sweep into quick Congo unity.

A British government plea for "discussion and negotiation" in Katanga brought charges from the opposition Labor party that Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Conservative regime was trying to thwart U.N. plans for ending the partition of the Congo.

British, Belgian and American capital back mining operations in mineral-rich Katanga, which seceded from the poverty-stricken rest of the Congo almost as soon as Belgium ended its colonial rule in June 1960.

"A military promenade" was the label pinned by a Western diplomat on the swift U.N. cleanup of Tshombe's forces. The U.N. command said it launched the three-day offensive only after it endured a crescendo of Katangan bombardments.

New Publication Gives Answer

How Heavy Is the Tax Burden?

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst ... NEW YORK (AP) — The Tax burden has been called too heavy by everyone from President Kennedy down to the lowliest taxpayer. It will be up for debate soon in Congress, many state legislatures and numerous local governing bodies.

Just how heavy is it? The amount and impact has been collected by the Tax Foundation, a private non-profit organization keeping an eye on such matters. In the biennial publication, Facts and Figures on Government Finance, out today, the foundation looks at the total burden, how it is spent, how the public debt grows.

The totals are pretty high — the taxes, the spending, the debt. You might find them a help in understanding the pros and cons as Congress discusses whether the federal tax rates can or can't be cut, and if so how much.

In fiscal 1962 the Tax Foundation puts total government tax receipts at $140 billion, up $3 billion in the year. This includes federal, state and local collections. In 1950, these governments collected $548 billion.

President Kennedy says that while much of this is necessary to provide for defense and civil services, it still takes quite a chunk out of the purchasing power of American consumers and business firms that could be used to speed up economic growth.

The three levels of government spent $174 billion in fiscal 1962, the Foundation estimates. This is $10 million more than in 1961 and compares with $70.3 billion in 1950.

Those who contend government should spend still more now, if it wants business to get out its present sluggish growth, hold that much of the $174 billion went towards keeping many individuals at work and many firms producing more than they otherwise would.

The Foundation puts the gross debt of federal, state and local governments at the end of fiscal 1962 at $379 billion, up $15 billion in the year, and comparing with $289 billion in 1952.

The debt total, with state and local components estimated by the Foundation, shows the federal tab as $298 billion, the local debt as $59 billion, and the state as nearly $22 billion. (The federal since the end of fiscal 1962 has risen to more than $304 billion.)

Statisticians like to reduce these gross figures down to the average person or the average family. This can be done by dividing the totals by the latest figures or estimates on the number of persons or family units in the United States.

This means little, particularly in the matter of taxes, since few persons pay the average figures. But the foundation has done the arithmetic and here is how the tax burden, government spending and debt figures out for each of the family units now estimated to be in the United States.

The share of each family in total taxes collected in fiscal 1962 is put at $3,005, compared with $1,394 in 1950. Government spending comes to $3,739 for each family, against $1,800 in 1950. And each family's share of the debt of the three forms of government is $8,129, compared with $7,100 in 1952.

This isn't a happy thought for the new year. But a lot of other things are happier now than in 1950 — incomes, savings, total personal assets all higher. So, try to have a

More Troubles Predicted In '63

Economic Boom In Europe Slowed Perceptively In '62

By MILTON MARMOR
LONDON (AP) — The European economic boom slowed down perceptively in 1962. From several directions came warnings of economic troubles ahead for 1963.

An Associated Press survey showed that Western Europe's "economic miracle" was continuing — but at a much reduced pace.

There were warnings that booming wage and price increases could spell future trouble. In some nations there were even fears of an economic recession.

A minor wave of bankruptcies hit West Germany. In some countries businessmen were wondering where to get the money to finance their expansionist programs in 1963. Business profits were under pressure. Wages have been rising a good deal faster than output.

However, there was still full employment in most countries and a labor shortage in some. Foreign workers crossed borders to fill the gaps.

The report by counseils: —West Germany— For West German business 1962 was a year of continued but slowing prosperity.

It amounted to a leveling off on a high plain, a process that was expected to continue in the coming year.

Several spectacular bankruptcies raised cautious signs. But workers dropped by companies in difficulty had no trouble finding jobs with other firms.

Wages rose and so did consumer spending.

—France—

As 1962 neared a close, both French and foreign economic observers agreed that France's economic situation was generally good, with prospects for the coming year qually encouraging.

Business activity continues at a high level with France's currency stabilized and convertible on world money markets.

The economic growth in the past year has been between 4 and 5 per cent.

—Italy—

It was another good year for Italy. The nation continued to ride the greatest economic boom in its history.

But at prolonged summer drought adversely affected agriculture and industrial production, particularly in the metal industry, was hit by strikes and unrest.

Despite the disruptions industrial growth increased by 10 per cent over the peaks of the preceding years.

The nation's business community was taking a more cautious view of what may lie ahead.

—Britain—

The British economy, which lagged behind Europe's boom in 1961, improved slightly during 1962.

During the year Britain paid off a $1.5 billion loan from the International Monetary Fund which it made during last year's sterling crisis.

But unemployment continued to rise, reaching 544,451, or 2.4 per cent of the total number of employees.

Industrial production was more than 4 per cent higher in the second quarter than the first.

—Switzerland—

The Swiss economy continued to expand at a record rate throughout 1962. There was growing concern that a resulting wave of inflation may threaten the stability of the Swiss franc.

Total imports and exports rose to an all-time high.

—Scandinavia—

The Scandinavian countries maintained their high level of production in 1962, but a leveling off in the rate of growth of the national product was becoming clearly noticeable.

Sweden's situation is, by and large, good.

—Netherlands—

It is generally felt in the Netherlands that the economic boom of the past years is losing steam. Government leaders, business men and brokers are vigilant. Yet there is no recession scare.

—Belgium—

The Belgian economy is developing in a favorable atmosphere. Full employment is almost achieved.

On the whole, industrial activity is slightly higher than it was the previous year.

—Spain—

Spain is pushing an industrial awakening which in time may transform this once backward nation, economically, into another France or Italy.

Greatest progress had been in production for home consumption. Exports continued to fall behind but a booming tourist traffic brought enough foreign exchange to balance Spain's international trade.

County Fair Board To Meet Wednesday

Ben Weingart of Leetonia, president of the Columbiana County Fair Board, will preside for the board's first meeting of 1963 at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the extension service office in Lisbon.

He said business will include appointment of a 10th member to succeed Dale Rudabaugh of Wells-ville who resigned, and appointment of a secretary and treasurer.

Richard Stamp of Salem, secretary, and V. B. Lemley of Lisbon, treasurer, wish release from the duties since their terms as board members expired last month. They agreed to continue as secretary and treasurer until replacements are named.

ROMANIAN SERVICE SET

Rev. Gratian Radu will conduct New Year's Day services at St. John's Romanian Church at 11 a. m. Tuesday.

Cuban Crisis Helped U.S. Grain Trade

By GIL MAYO
AP Business News Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Until President Kennedy imposed the blockade of Cuba, trade in grain futures this year was largely on slow moving trends guided mostly by factors well known in advance.

Soybeans, as in recent years, were by far the most actively traded commodity on the Chicago Board of Trade. Their range of more than 20 cents a bushel from mid-July to mid-August was the broadest of the year.

Activity in all pits hit its peak in late October after the President's announcement that Cuba was bristling with missile bases. It brought the heaviest general speculative buying of the year and prices shot upward. Gains of four cents of more were posted in a single day. In soybeans they ranged to the limit of 10 cents allowed for any one trading day. Belief in the pits was that foreign buyers would place large orders toward stockpiling all commodities. It brought a ban from the U.S. Department of Agriculture against certain sales of government-owned corn for a time, which made the threat of war seem more imminent to speculators.

The tension in the market was short-lived, however, and with word that the missile bases would be dismantled prices quickly fell back.

It was the only time that such considerations as government price supports, crop reports and other usual market guides were smothered.

As usual during the growing season, prices reacted mainly to crop development and government selling from surplus stocks. The latter was most bearish in corn.

Since the government was required to sell a sufficient quantity of corn to recover costs of benefits paid to producers in the acreage control program last year, the price of that grain held within a narrow range of about 10 cents although exports for the crop year ended Oct. 1, reached a record high peak.

Wheat prices were only slightly broader because at the peaks farmers found it profitable to redeem grain from the price support loan program.

Meanwhile, $2 Billion Tax Boost

Do you know about the $2 billion tax rise that goes into effect Jan. 1?

Some of what the federal government says it would like to keep from taking away in 1963 by reforming one tax it is taking away with gusto starting next Tuesday.

This will be done through a jump in Social Security tax rates from 3½ per cent to 3 per cent on the first $4,800 of earnings. This is matched by the employer. Thus the total tax boost is twice 4-8 of 1 per cent—1 per cent.

The effect of this rise will be felt most by employees earning more than the base $4,800. The resumption of Social Security taxes starting in January will amount in a sense to a double cut in their take-home pay.

It is the ninth boost in Social Security tax rates since the system was voted into law in 1935. Further rate rises are scheduled for 1966 and 1968. If the medicare plan had gone through this year, rates on employees and employers would have jumped by ¼ per cent each on self-employed persons by 4-10 per cent. Medicare also would have applied the entire tax on the first $5,200 of earnings. It would have been a bone-crushing tax measure.

It is still not comprehended by most potential beneficiaries that the Social Security tax is a prime revenue producer. The $2 billion boost in 1963 will not be paid out to beneficiaries. It will become a credit to the Social Security account in the U.S. Treasury. The money itself will be used for current spending, just like excise and income taxes.

In the long run, Social Security taxes and Old Age benefits are supposed to balance, but in the short run Social Security tax income constitutes a vast floating fund. Yet, by the simple expedient of stressing Social Security benefits instead of the yield from Social Security taxes, the government has been able to keep popular attention diverted from the tax angle.

If by some fiscal legerdemain the government shucks off a few billion in income taxes in 1963 it will claim credit for its open handedness. To keep the record straight it also should take responsibility for a $2 billion tax boost, the effect of a rise in Social Security tax rates.

A tax by any other name or for any other reason is still a diversion of money from the possession of the taxpayer to the possession of his government.

Not Ready For the Last Lesson

P. M. S. Backett, British physicist writing in the January issue of Harper's magazine, offers a disarmament formula designed to convince skeptics that a quick end to the arms race is possible if the West would revise its inspection demand.

His formula come under stern criticism in the same issue by Harper's editor-in-chief, John Fischer. And for good reason.

Dr. Blackett's proposal would bring the West to nuclear parity with the Soviet Union by having each nation "publish a complete inventory" of its arms and then destroy an agreed percentage. Only after this had been done would inspection be permitted, to determine whether the inventory tallied with arms destroyed and arms on hand. "he is inviting us to trust the Kremlin's word that it has, say, only 100 ICBMs, taking a chance that we might discover all too late that it had hidden away a couple of hundred never mentioned in the inventory."

TRUSTING the Kremlin's word, as Dr. Blackett must know, is risky business. Wasn't it just last fall that the Soviet Union assured us it had no missiles in Cuba?

As Mr. Fischer points out, the difference in philosophies of the United States and Soviet Union must be figured in any disarmament plan. Russia is an aggressive power; the United States a defensive power.

We can only guess at Russia's nuclear capabilities. The Kremlin is adept at keeping secrets. With scattered exceptions, Russia need use little guesswork in totting up our missile strength. It's not much of a secret.

DR. BLACKETT and many others feel the Cuba showdown has opened the way for disarmament. True, it could go down in history as the crisis that jarred us off the bull's-eye.

But Cuba must also be regarded as this country's most graphic lesson in Soviet deception. Disarmament on Dr. Blackett's terms, disregarding open inspection to determine what is being scrapped, would invite another lesson.

And who wants to bet it wouldn't be the last?

'Little Brother' Always Watching

There is deep public concern over the apparent ability of James R. Hoffa to emerge unscathed and unmarked from every encounter with the U.S. Department of Justice.

People are talking about it. They are wondering if the leader of the powerful Teamsters Union has cornered so much power he looms larger than the federal government. They are speculating about the man's further growth of power if he moves into the places that he has been eyeing—the telephone business, for example.

But there is one thing about the Hoffa saga that must not be forgotten during the recital of the Teamster leader's personal success in staying beyond the reach of the U.S. Department of Justice.

It is the fact Robert Kennedy, head of the department — the "little brother" Mr. Hoffa publicly despises and reviles — is watching the man he has pledged himself to annoy.

These are not the good old days when a Teamster leader like James Beck could run the union without fear of even a second guess. These are days when 14 grand juries are currently looking into the handling of Teamster pension money, when more than 40 of Mr. Hoffa's associates have been indicted during the last year and have been convicted on the charges brought against them.

These are days when the nation's most powerful union and the powerful men who have built their careers on it are never allowed to forget that they are on the defensive; that one major error in their behavior could bring the whole structure tumbling down.

It is relatively unimportant that Robert Kennedy's efforts to find James R. Hoffa's Achilles Heel have been fruitless. Never was the Teamsters Union under such unrelenting scrutiny, which is a break in the favor of its hundreds of thousands of members.

Happy people don't bother to add up their troubles, they just count their blessings.

Purely Personal

By Truman Twill

The Cuban prisoner deal, aside from the Christmas Eve timing, left me cold. If ever there was a cold proposition this was it, starting with the motives of some of the prisoners who wanted to oust Castro.

One way to spark off a lively conversation is to describe an experience with putting together children's playthings after the little ones have been put to bed on Christmas Eve. Some of these toys were designed by Sade.

My most noteworthy Christmas present may never see the light of day, after a brief appearance in the privacy of my home. It is a red velvet vest with ornamental buttons, and the thought of appearing in it in public brings out the cold sweat on my forehead.

In a Holy Land scene shown on television it was still noticeable that the animals, the shepherds would be watching by night, if they still work at the trade, bear no resemblance to creatures we call sheep. The nativity shepherds were goatherds.

I am sharpening my punch for the first bubblehead who leers at me and says something about an old-fashioned winter. This, snowbirds, is as old-fashioned a winter as we can put up with, and if you don't think so take a look at the snow shovel I've worn out since those Indian Summer days came to an end late in November.

I feel the puzzlement in most strikes originates in the inability of those who report the ostensible issues to get at the real issues, which are frequently psychosocial and sometimes personal.

Funny thing about men like former Sen. Warren R. Austin of Vermont, who practice stiff opposition to things like the United Nations until they learn something about them, they become enthusiastic champions. Same thing also happened to some big businessmen who learned about foreign aid. Nothing cools off bitterness like knowledge.

I can remember when every member of a household reserved the right to say if he thought the house was too hot, too cold, or just right. Then came thermostats, which play the role of silent arbiters—saying it is just right and those who think otherwise haven't anything to argue about.

In Ohio, the new finance director says the way to do it is to cut down income is to cut down spending. In Washington, they say the thing to do is cut down income and increase spending. Which reminds you: Whatever became of Alice in Wonderland? Did she ever marry? Have children?

It strikes me as nonsensical to choose the 10 top news stories of the year and mix together in the same list "spot" stories like Col. Glenn's three-orbit flight and that shabby not a single event but a situation reported in bits and pieces over a period of weeks. To me a news story is in one piece; it is not a situation but an event.

In case anyone gets curious next Spring, planned parenthood for the Twilley sheep got off schedule so far because of snowdrifts and blocked lanes that it will be June 1 before the first little strangers appear on the scene next year—among buttercups instead of snowdrifts.

Always when it's too late. I think of people I intended to send Christmas cards too, or to say Merry Christmas. Belatedly—Merry Christmas to them, too.

Russia's Woes Indicate Lessening of Tension

By LEON DENNEN
UNITED NATIONS—Diplomats from West and East have gazed into their crystal balls and decided that 1963 will be a year of "international relaxation."

Even Cassandras among the U.N. delegates predict a Soviet diplomatic "soft sell" for the next 12 months.

THE FREE WORLD can, of course, dangerously overstress the troubles in the Red camp. Communism has not lost its zeal for world conquest. The Soviet premier has learned well his Marxist-Leninist lesson which calls for the destruction of the "capitalist" West. He will continue to preach that the future belongs to the Marxist-Leninist utopia.

But Khrushchev's words, in the view of specialists on communism, now carry less conviction even in the undeveloped nations of Asia, Africa and Latin America. Said an experienced Asian diplomat:

"Forty-five years after the Russian Revolution old Nikita is like a man running backwards with his face to the future."

One thing seems clear: the Red world is in a state of moral crisis largely due to Khrushchev's feud with Red China's Mao Tse-tung.

BUT TROUBLE THREATENS the Soviet premier from other quarters as well. Leading Soviet scientists, according to the Russian press, are turning their backs on arid Marxist materialism and are thinking in terms of a spiritual concept of the universe. In a Russia that has made a cult of godlessness, scientists are rediscovering God.

Writers, artists and poets are beginning to criticize the Kremlin dictatorship, however cautiously. Young Russians are showing a spirit of nonconformism. They prefer the "degenerated culture" of the West, including American jazz, abstract paintings and beatnik beards, to the austerity of communism and the dullness of Marxist propaganda.

Nationalism among Russia's various "national republics," especially those bordering on Red China, is on the rise; it represents a serious challenge to Muscovite domination.

Four years ago Khrushchev promised to raise Russia's living standards to U.S. levels. But the Kremlin was recently compelled to admit officially that thousands of workers quit their jobs in Siberia in protest against substandard living conditions. This was tantamount to a strike by the Soviet proletariat against the Kremlin's "capitalists."

The price of meat and butter in Russia was increased last June by 30 per cent. On the top of it, Khrushchev's much trumpeted promise to Russia's Ivan to abolish all income taxes by 1965 was suspended indefinitely.

THE KREMLIN'S RULERS

have spent billions of dollars to send astronauts into space. But they are forced to collect scrap metal, especially copper. Moscow's satiric weekly, Krokodil, recently printed a cartoon which shows bright-eyed boys and girls triumphantly carrying a passenger car, complete with driver, toward a scrap collecting point.

Premier Khrushchev's bitter attacks on the prosperous West European Common Market as an "imperialist capitalist monopoly" highlights a little understood but crucial aspect of the world situation. Behind these political attacks there is the fact that Russia desperately needs its sources of supply in these Western nations.

The Soviet premier is undoubtedly working hard to bring the disarray in the Red world under control. But it is much easier to crush freedom fighters in Hungary or strikers in Siberia than to stop a spreading moral malaise. Atomic missiles and tanks are of no use here.

KHRUSHCHEV thus needs a breathing spell to consolidate his position. In the 1920s, when communism was in trouble, Lenin suddenly inaugurated a New Economic Policy and invited the West to help build a "Socialist Russia." The free world fell for Lenin's bait and has been paying dearly for it ever since.

In 1963, by resorting to his soft sell, Khrushchev obviously hopes to repeat Lenin's trick and get the West to pull his chestnuts out of the fire.

From the Files

10 YEARS AGO—Several Farm Bureau leaders from Columbiana County will be in Columbus Jan. 5-6 to take part in the state-wide Farm Bureau Institute. Local delegates are Nelson Baunach, Russell Miller, Mrs. Herman Kampfer, Mrs. Ray L. Todd and Glenn Schotten, organization director.

35 YEARS AGO — Building here in 1927 reached a new high peak, according to a report on building permits compiled today by Mayor George E. Russell. Permits for $238,740 worth of construction was granted in 1927, three times as much of the total cost of new buildings erected in Salem in 1928. Last year 41 permits were granted for new buildings. This year's permits for new buildings total 101.

"Okay Men, We Camp Here Tonight"

Spitzbergen: Military Curiosity

By ROLAND HUNTFORD

Herald Tribune News Service
TROMSO, Norway — There is a possibility — rarely admitted here — that the Russians may be trying to work up toward a demand for some form of de facto recognition of their sovereignty over parts of Spitzbergen.

To counteract this, there is some talk of increasing the activities of Western expeditions next summer, but there is a great deal of leeway to be made up.

Spitzbergen, of course, could be important as a radar post watching for intercontinental missiles taking a polar route — not to mention as a launching-base itself. Hostile rockets could not only threaten the American bases in Greenland, but also the mainland of Canada.

Russians Increase Activity
Russian activity has certainly increased greatly over the past year, with many more expeditions at work. The size and scope of these activities cannot be explained purely by enthusiasm for the explorer's life or devotion to science in the abstract.

The Russians have claimed that they have been prospecting for minerals; the Norwegians say that they were, in fact, making detailed surveys of the dangerous broken coast; in other words, their interest was military.

This is a likelier explanation because of Spitzbergen's strategic worth. A bare mountainous, glacier-covered and inhospitable group of islands in the Arctic Ocean it lies between Western Siberia and Greenland, dominating the seas between them.

Although Spitzbergen belongs to Norway, the 1920 International Convention which recognized her jurisdiction also established the right of any nation to search for minerals and carry out mining activities.

There are large coal deposits, which both the Norwegians and Russians work. Transport is difficult and costly, for the nearest ports are a thousand miles away and the intervening waters are stormy and dangerous.

Soviet Mining Unjustified
The Norwegian workings are justified on the grounds of their being the only ones in their possession, but Russian mining seems hard to accept at its face value, since they have large and more convenient reserves elsewhere.

Seven hundred Norwegians produce 350,000 tons of coal yearly, while 4,000 Russians mine 400,000 tons. Theirs must be the world's most expensive mining operation and they are believed to work primarily not for the coal but to justify their presence. Consequently, Spitzbergen is a military curiosity: a slice of NATO territory with a mostly Soviet population.

Isolated in Winter
All exploration of Spitzbergen usually stops during the winter, when ice and storms close the sea lanes. The permanent population is then isolated (except for the occasional plane) from the outside world and the rest of the territory. The last Norwegian boat before the winter has already left Tromsø.

The Russians, however, have brought in large numbers of tracked snow vehicles and powerful helicopters to their base at Barentsburg and will undoubtedly be able to do much useful exploration during these dark winter months. Large areas are still comparatively unknown.

Some Western expeditions were on Spitzbergen this year but they were small in comparison with the Russian activity. An American oil company was supposedly prospecting for oil on edge land; it had unsuitable equipment and wasted most of the season.

The Russians, on the other hand, with proper equipment, were able to work much as they had intended. On several occasions they tried to penetrate the Americans' prospecting area, and had to be firmly denied entry.

History Today

Today is Monday, Dec. 31, the 365th day of 1962. This is the last day of the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this day in 1944, Supreme Allied Headquarters in Europe issued an official account of the massacre of 115 U.S. war prisoners by the Nazis during the Battle of the Bulge.

On this day: In 1600, Queen Elizabeth I granted a charter to the English East India.

In 1805, France discontinued use and resumed use of the Georgian Calendar.

In 1879, Thomas Alva Edison first demonstrated his electric incandescent light bulb.

In 1942, U. S. Army bombers raided Japanese shipping in the Aleutians during World War II.

In 1951, the Marshall Plan expired after the expenditures of nearly $12 billion dollars to aid World War II.

Today's birthdays: Concert violinist Nathan Milstein is 58. French statesman Guy Mollet is 57.

Thought for today: A bad cause will ever be supported by bad means and bad men—Thomas Paine.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: The girls in the office are having a difference of opinion. Will you please referee?

We are agreed it is bad manners to ask a friend how much she paid for something. But how about asking where the hat or the shoes or the coat was purchased? If the merchandise was bought at one of the swankier stores no one is embarrassed, but occasionally some of us pick up bargains in a little out-of-the-way place, or even in a resale shop or at a rummage sale.

One woman in this office doesn't even ASK. She just yanks the collar of the dress and looks at the label. I say it's nobody's business where one bought the merchandise. May we hear from you on this?—PRESIDENT OF THE SOCIETY FOR PRESERVATION OF GOOD MANNERS FOR WORKING GIRLS.

Dear Madame President: A woman who receives a compliment on her hat, shoes or coat usually will tell where she purchased it within the first three sentences—if she wishes you to know. If the information is not volunteered, the question should not be asked. Collar yanking is absolutely out. Moreover, it is sometimes fruitless, because in the better dresses the labels are sewn in the skirt seams.

Double Tragedy

Dear Ann: We had a tragedy in our family and I need some advice. Our young niece, only 21 years old, was injured seriously in an automobile accident. She probably will be in a wheel chair for the rest of her life.

The circumstances surrounding the accident were ugly. The man is married and has a fine family. He is prominent in business circles and, naturally, there was plenty of publicity.

There was no way we could keep this information from our 11- and 13-year-old children. They read the newspapers and all the details were in print. Also, their friends heard their parents talking about it.

My husband's mother told our children that God punished Aunt Marie because she had done something sinful. I don't feel it is right to put such ideas into children's heads. We need your opinion.—SAD FAMILY.

Dear Family: Children should not be told that tragedy is God's way of punishing people. They then will believe that all individuals who suffer misfortune are bad.

When trouble comes to them, which is inevitable, they will have the added burden of guilt. Grandma is mistaken, that tragedy can come to anyone and has nothing to do with how we stand in the eyes of God.

Letter of Praise

Dear Ann: You'll never know the good you do. For example, printing that wonderful letter from the divorced woman who urged others in the same leaky boat to keep after the bum until she gets the support money which the court ordered him to pay.

I am a divorcee who raised five children. I have been in court so many times I could conduct the hearings myself. Keep telling people, Ann, that even if they can't afford to hire a lawyer every county has a district attorney who can help. If the ex-husband is in the military, every installation has a legal office.

The big word of caution is this: Be sure the original divorce papers state an exact amount of payment, plus any changes—such as an increase when the children reach high school age, or an increase if HIS income is increased. The good Lord helps those who help themselves.—IT HAPPENED IN MONTEREY.

Dear Monte: Thanks for your letter. In next weekend's column I'm going to give an ex-husband the floor. He, too, has an interesting viewpoint.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Expected To Pick Up Steam by Midyear

Sluggish Business Advance Seen In Early '63

By STERLING F GREEN
WASHINGTON (AP)—Fears of an early-1963 recession have yielded to the expectation, in Washington at least, of a sluggish business advance that should pick up steam after midyear.

Many government economists believe that the national output will total $575 to $580 billion in the year ahead—a record, about $25 billion above 1962—and move on up to a rate around $600 billion by next New Year's.

But seldom have the prospects for Main Street and Wall Street been so vulnerable to decisions to be made elsewhere—at the opposite ends of Pennsylvania Ave., at the White House and the Capitol.

The outlook for a moderately good, non-inflationary year, without boom or full employment, could be brightened swiftly, the economists say, if Congress gives early approval to the substantial tax cuts which President Kennedy will formally request in a few days.

After a year-long barrage of administration arguments for a business-stimulating tax reduction, many consumers and business managers now confidently expect it. If Congress says no, some experts believe the public letdown could have a depressing impact on spending and investment.

And Congress quite possibly may say no, because the economy looks healthy enough to many lawmakers to get along without President Kennedy's costly booster shot. Congress members know that a significant tax reduction could help throw the rising 1964 federal budget out of balance by $15 billion or thereabouts.

Yet the prospect of higher federal spending, deficit-financed, is the main reason why the economists are fairly sure there won't be any recession in 1963.

Outlays by all governments—federal, state and local—are expected to go up $9 billion next year. This is comparable to the rise of $10 billion which helped carry the country over the economic rough spots of 1962.

On the private side of the economy, most sectors are expected to do better than hold their own. They showed remarkable resiliency last year in overcoming a winter slump, a government-versus-industry battle over steel prices, a stock market collapse, a midsummer slow down, and the Cuban crisis.

The economists predict—with unusual unanimity, in view of the fact that most of them were forecasting a downturn only three months ago—that 1963 will see these trends in key areas of the economy:

1. High and gradually increasing consumer demand.

Total personal income increased every month in the past year. For all of 1962, it reached a record at a level $20 billion above the previous year. "Real" income also went up because incomes rose faster than prices. Savings were high.

The average consumer, in short, is fairly well heeled. But he is also well stocked with the necessities and conveniences of life. He has no reason to splurge; he cannot be expected to spark a buying boom.

He could fool the experts, however. His new car purchases in the last three months were the driving force of a fall business upsurge. This could be another great year for the auto makers, with beneficial results for the whole economy.

2. A moderate rise in business investment.

The planned outlays of industry for new machinery, plants and equipment indicate a rise of 3 to 5 per cent for such investment. Government experts think these plans may be revised upward later in the year. Tax incentives provided in 1961 may persuade some hesitant managements to take the plunge into modernization and expansion.

But 5 per cent would be just a middling—fair increase. A 25 per cent step-up in investment would be required to achieve a full-employment economy, and such an increase is not considered remotely possible.

3. Cautious buying for business inventories.

The outlook for consumer sales is not bright enough to induce business men to change the conservative rate at which they purchased supplies and materials in 1962. A spurt in inventory buying can help create a boom; a sudden let-up can spell recession. Neither is likely in 1963.

4. Strength in the building industry.

The biggest industry of them all, construction, will have its second record year in a row. Outlays on building will total about $63.3 billion, it is estimated officially. This would be $2.1 billion above 1962 and $6 billion over 1961.

Home building, which wound up 1961 with a good record despite much hand-wringing in the industry along the way, should have another good year, says the Commerce Department. The forecast is that 1,425,000 new homes will be started.

The forecast assumes ample credit at reasonable costs throughout the year.

5. Uncertainty in foreign trade and payments.

The growth of the European economies, far more rapid than that of the United States in recent years, is slowing down. This could choke off the continued improvement in American export sales.

On the other hand, European production costs and prices are business expansion should just about offset the growth of the labor force, leaving the jobless somewhere near the 5.5 per cent level of 1962.

—Some rise in profits, but not enough to bring cheers from corporate management or stock holders. Profits before taxes were roughly $51 billion last year, a record. But in proportion to sales and corporate output, the post-war squeeze on earnings tightened further.

—Stable living costs. The consumer price increase in 1962 was less than 1 per cent. With industry continuing to operate well below capacity, most economists expect the living cost rise in 1963 to be even smaller.

Woman's Fine Hand Stirs the Year In '62

By JOY MILLER

Women worried about the same old things in 1962: cost of living, dieting, getting a man—or if they had one, keeping him—their children's futures.

They added some new tensions too.

At the supermarket they collected trading stamps with philatelic fervor. At the beauty shop they insisted on a bouffant hair-outlet in picketing for peace. At the blandishments of a wig.

Often as not they settled for rabbit by another name, or perhaps mink, but in their dramatic little hearts they longed for a leopard skin coat like Queen Elizabeth or Elizabeth Taylor or Jackie Kennedy were photographed in.

FOR THAT MATTER, a good many longed for just about anything the First Lady wore—from Capri pants to wraparound sunglasses to rajah coasts.

The serious-minded sometimes scorned fashion and found their outlet in picketing for eace. Others argued earnestly at Congressional hearings that women should be sent into space.

Mothers were besieged from all sides. An eminent pediatrician insisted tests showed babies thrived on unheated milk just out of the refrigerator, a new fangled theory many a mother vowed to have nothing to do with. Having weathered many another fad, mothers of teen-agers faced the newest cheap kick: glue sniffing. And the Twist, in spite of detractors, was still popular at year's end.

IF THERE WAS unanimity on anything, it was that Dr. Frances Kelsey was the heroine of the year. She was the U.S. Food and Drug Administration medical officer who stubbornly held out for 14 months against impossible odds to bar thalidomide from the American market. The sleeping pill later was blamed for the deformity of thousands of babies in Europe.

Dr. Kelsey was the undisputed year's heroine, but actress Elizabeth Taylor was unrivaled in the role of siren. Her carryings-on with her leading man Richard Burton during the interminable filming of "Cleopatra" in Rome was clucked over and avidly followed by almost everybody, from housewife to cab driver. The actors' respective spouses reaped the sympathy.

FOR CONSISTENTLY popular interest though, Mrs. John F. Kennedy won hands down. Her trips to India and Italy were given as devoted reportage as if they were summit meetings. When she rode to the hounds, took a turn on a surfboard or appeared with a new coiffure, everybody discussed it. She became a television personality to reckon with after she conducted a televised tour of the White House she had refurbished. No trivia escaped attention. When Leonard Bernstein, the New York Philharmonic conductor, gave her a chaste peck on the cheek at the opening of Philharmonic Hall the question of the social kiss became a topic of the day.

Occasionally other Kennedys got rabbit. Sister-in-law Ethel won many a heart in her global trip with husband, Bob. Lovely Joan Kennedy gained the spotlight when Ted won the senatorial election in November.

ON THE INTERNATIONAL scene, Mrs. Sirimavo Bandaranaike, prime minister of Ceylon, put down a palace revolution staged by mere men.

And the United States got another lady ambassador: Mrs. Eugene Anderson, to Bulgaria. Ambassador Frances Willis was appointed in 1961 to Ceylon, where she copes with the formidable Mrs. Bandaranaike.

In the world of women there was tragedy, too.

The world lost its First Lady when Eleanor Roosevelt died at the age of 78. The Dutch lost Princess Wilhelmina, 82, their queen for 58 years.

Marilyn Monroe died at 36 from an overdose of sleeping pills and the movies' lost its sex symbol.

Other vital statistics include:

DIVORCES
Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller, after 32 years of marriage to the New York governor; and some movie colony ruptures — Lana Turner, Rosemary Clooney, Janet Leigh, Dinah Shore.

Marriages
Prince Juan Carlos of Spain, 24, and Princess Sophie of Greece, 23, honeymooned in this country. Zsa Zsa Gabor took her fourth husband, Herbert Loeb Hutner, a Manhattan investor she met at a charity ball.

Two autumn alliances: The Sparrow, French chanteuse Edith Piaf, 47, and Theo Sarapo, a Greek ex-hairdresser, 23; Lotte Lenya, 64, widow of composer Kurt Weill, and Russell Detwiler, 37-year-old American impressionist painter.

Outstanding Artists
The year's outstanding woman authors were probably Katherine Anne Porter for her first novel "Ship of Fools," and Rachel Carson for her controversial "Silent Spring," an attack on irresponsible use of pesticides.

Playwright Lillian Hellman and painter Georgia O'Keeffe were elected members of the American Academy of Arts and Letters—making now 6 women compared with 42 men.

In the theater Margaret Leigh-ton won the chief actress awards, and on television Lucille Ball was undoubtedly the outstanding woman—both for her comeback in a half-hour comedy series, and for becoming president of Desilu Productions.

But Continuing Prosperity Is Predicted

Neither Bust Nor Boom Seen In '63

By NATE POLOWETZKY
AP General Business Editor
NEW YORK (AP)—What does 1963 hold in store for the U.S. economy?

For months the question has been argued, analyzed and dissected. The answer? A year of continuing general prosperity, of continuing high business activity, but no soaring upswing.

In short, neither bust nor boom. Even at that, the prospect is much better than it was a few months ago when businessmen, economists, and some government spokesmen freely predicted an early recession in 1963.

But a late pickup in business activity, the prospect of a tax cut, high auto sales, higher consumer spending, and a restoration of national confidence as a result of the Cuban crisis brought about a new reevaluation for the year.

The thick gloom of late summer and early autumn has disappeared. The pessimists have retreated. And the widespread talk of recession is no longer to be heard.

The "X" factor in how the economy performs next year is the tax cut.

President Kennedy has promised a slash in corporate and individual taxes. He has been joined in this by leading members of this administration and by a great majority of the business and financial communities.

But how much the tax cut will be, and what form it will take, and just who will benefit from it, is still unclear.

Kennedy himself has not spelled it out. Some powerful congressional forces have already objected to a "quickie" reduction, some demanding concomitant drops in federal expenditures to make up for the loss in revenue, others saying the economy is healthy enough without a cut.

The argument for a tax cut is that it is needed not so much to forestall a possible recession, but to jog the economy out of its sluggish rate of growth by pouring more money—both corporate and consumer—into it.

On a statistical basis, government economists expect the gross national product—the value of all goods and services—will total $575 billion to $580 billion in the year ahead.

This will be a record, about $25 billion above 1962. The economists also predict the GNP may move up to a rate of around $600 billion by next new year's.

Government spending will contribute greatly to the health of the economy. A new high of about $126.4 billion is expected to be poured into the economy next year by federal, state and local governments for goods and services.

But if any boom occurs during the year—and is isn't in the cards—it won't come from this source, but rather from the average consumer.

Looming large over the economic picture, like an ominous dark cloud, is the question of unemployment.

SENTENCED — William Marlowe, 40, former policeman who touched off a Cleveland, Ohio police scandal, was sentenced to 3 to 50 years on conviction of burglary.

should be made to determine the cause.

Once the bleeding has stopped it is important that the child not blow his nose or try to dislodge the clot for about eight hours. In washing his face care must be used not to press any part of the nose. Several hours before removing the clot it is well to place oily nose drops in the nose. In any subsequent attempt to remove the clot the utmost gentleness is required.

Nosebleeds are rarely serious but it is only natural that everyone concerned will have some anxious moments until they are under control.

Q—Could nasal drops given to an infant cause trouble if inhaled into the windpipe or lungs? I have been told it could bring on pneumonia.

A—When giving nose drops to anyone—and especially to a child—it is good practice to have the recipient lie on his back across the bed with his head extending over the side, hanging downward. Then if the drops are not irritating and are introduced gently—not more than two drops in each nostril of an infant—there should not be any gagging, coughing, or choking. In that way the danger of getting the drops in the lungs is minimized.

IF A LITTLE OF the medicine gets into the windpipe only, no harm will be done, and after a few minutes the natural flow of mucus from the windpipe to the throat will remove the foreign matter.

If the drops get into the lungs, the question whether they will cause pneumonia depends on how much infectious matter from the nose and throat they carry with them. The drops themselves would not be likely to cause pneumonia but they would almost surely carry some germs with them. What kind of germs and how many is the important point.

Everything Headed Up But Price, Profits In U.S. Food Industry

By DARDEN CHAMBLISS
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Everything seems headed upward in the food industry except prices and profits.

Dollar volume, poundage volume, numbers of items available—the statistics all swelled during 1962.

But, the industry contends, prices to consumers held steady. Even adding convenience features to some food products failed to push prices up, says Paul S. Willis, president of Grocery Manufacturers of America, Inc., and a grocery basketful costs hardly more today than it did 10 years ago.

Net profits, meanwhile have tended downward, Willis said, hitting about 3.2 per cent of sales in 1962 against 3.3 last year and 4.6 in 1959.

Industry statistics show a rise in food consumption expenditures of about $2 billion during the year to $80 billion, with another $2 billion rise foreseen in 1963, Willis estimates.

Frozen food volume, meanwhile, rose from 8.5 billion pounds last year to an estimated 9.1 billion in 1962, the industry publication last year to an estimated 9.1 billion in 1962, the industry publication Quick Frozen Foods, estimates.

The total number of items available in the standard supermarket today, an industry source estimated, is about 8,000, almost 10 times as much variety as before the war.

Prices in 1962, meanwhile held steady. Except for a few scattered jumps, like sugar, and declines, like coffee, most categories stayed on fairly level planes.

drove up meat prices temporarily, but the year-long, over-all average food price index ran below the year-ago level through most of 1962. Only during the withholding action in September and in the closing weeks of the year was 1962 higher in year-to-year comparisons for more than one week at a time.

The Agriculture Department predicts that prices will continue stable through 1963.

Frozen food prices were generally stable, except that a record Florida juice crop brought bargains in frozen concentrates.

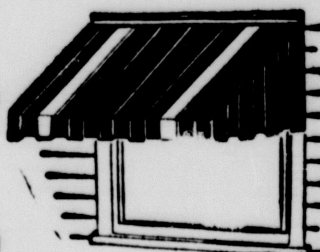

The retail value of frozen food sold during 1962 was estimated by Quick Frozen Foods at $3.85 billion, compared with $3.64 billion in 1961.

Biggest gainers during the year included premium-priced frozen bakery goods, portioned meat servings, fruit juices and frozen dinners.

The Doctor Says

By Dr. WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT

You Can Usually Stop Nosebleed

A sudden nosebleed in a child may be a very frightening thing both to the child and to the mother. This is especially true when there is no apparent cause such as a blow on the nose or head.

Nose bleeds are rarely seen in the newborn, but in children of school age they may be very common.

Dr. Brandstadt Sometimes it is triggered by the child's becoming overly excited or by maintaining a position for a few minutes with his head lower than the rest of his body.

Nosebleeds are more common in the winter when there are more colds and infected sinuses and when the warm dry indoor air may cause too much dryness of the nasal mucous membranes. Often a child's efforts, either by picking or blowing the nose, may start the bleeding. Girls approaching puberty may have a nasal bleeding instead of a normal menstrual period. This is known as vicarious menstruation.

THE USUAL household remedies such as applying an icebag or cold cloths to the back of the neck, are often all that is needed. The child should sit up with his head tilted slightly forward, so that the blood will not run down his throat, and should breathe through his mouth.

A handkerchief or facial tissue should be held gently in front of his nose. If the bleeding cannot be checked in 15 or 20 minutes you should call your doctor. If nosebleeds recur at frequent intervals, a thorough examination

Our New Year's wish is that we may continue to merit the goodwill of our friends who have been so loyal to us in the past.

Millions Will Hail Coming Of 1963

By The Associated Press
The end of an internationally tense 1962 and the start of an uncertain 1963 arrive tonight for countless millions around the globe.

For many, the midnight transition from the old to the new will bring joyful reflections. For others, it will spark sad recollections. Millions will flock to churches to raise their voices in song and prayer — thanking God for the blessings of the old year and Maine, some 40 miles north of Bangor, were reported isolated with no power and all roads blocked.

Maryland recorded three deaths in sledding accidents—a boy and a girl whose sleds were struck by cars and a boy whose sled came into a tree.

Six Boy Scouts were trapped several hours in a car stuck in a snow drift in Washington County, Pa., before highway crews freed them.

The New York Central and New Haven railroads said the severe cold knocked out signal systems at many points along their main lines in the Northeast. Trains were delayed up to three hours.

New York City experienced 4-degree temperatures today, equaling the year's lowest reading.

The mercury fell below zero elsewhere, including low readings Sunday night of -11 at Massena, N.Y.; -13 at Montpelier, Vt.; -4 at Hartford, Conn.; -6 at Worcester, Mass.; from 20 at the Adirondack Mountain communities of Old Forge, Boonville and Big Moose in upstate New York, and -38 atop Mt. Washington in New Hampshire's White Mountains.

Gusts reached 80 m.p.h. in New York, N.J., and an estimated 70 m.p.h. at Riverhead, N.Y., where the Peconic River was blown out into Great Peconic Bay on the north shore of Long Island. Boats were left stranded in very low water over a stretch of two miles or more.

A passenger on the Staten Island ferry in New York City reported seeing a teenage boy swept overboard by the fierce winds. A search of the harbor did not immediately produce a body.

A man drowned when winds capsized his motorboat off Oyster Bay, N.Y., on Long Island's north shore.

In New York City, a 150-foot construction crane toppled on its side. No one was injured.

Six persons were injured when a bus on the New York State Thruway was caught by a gust of wind and crashed into a culvert.

Twelve miles of highway between Conway and Chocoma, N.H., were strewn with fallen utility poles and trees. State police, working in from both ends of the blocked area, brought out some stranded motorists.

said. He predicted the most durable radiation would last not more than a few years and probably would not be detectable by next summer.

Van Allen, of the State University of Iowa, said the committee had relied almost solely on information obtained by the Telstar satellite lifted right after the blast and had ignored evidence from the Injun satellite.

He accused the committee of being hasty and "government-dominated." He said he felt "exceedingly intimidated" on the occasion he has been before the advisory committee, headed by Dr. Jerome B. Weisner.

Dr. James W. Warwick, radio astronomer of the high-altitude observatory at Boulder, Colo., said his studies made with radio measurements generally agreed with Van Allen's and were "inconsistent" with the government's report.

In New York, Dr. I. I. Rabi, Columbia University physicist and consultant-at-large to the committee, said both Van Allen and Warwick "know very well that when evidence is not complete, the results cannot be accurately predicted."

"There are times when practical action must be taken for various reasons," said Rabi. "I regret that Dr. Van Allen was not consulted beforehand, since he seems to be the final authority."

Cub Pack 2 Has Party

A Christmas party was enjoyed by Cub Pack 2 of the First Methodist Church recently at the church Fellowship Hall.

The Christmas tree was decorated by items made at the weekly den meetings.

Den 2 presented a play, "Night Before Christmas," with Bruce Paxson as narrator.

Santa Claus was present and gifted each boy with a model airplane kit.

The following awards were given: Wolf patch and pin, Alan Hoffman; wolf patch, pin and gold arrow, Bruce Paxson and "Butch" Edling; silver arrow, Billy Camp and Richard Hannon Jr.; bear patch and pin, Jimmy Swetey; bear books, Walter Hendricks Jr., Alan Hoffman, "Butch" Edling and Bruce Paxson.

Salineville, Larry Kachner; denner stripe, Dave Sechler and Alan Hoffman; assistant denner stripe, "Butch" Edling; new member patch, Walter Hendricks Jr.; one-year service star, Jack Pike and arrow of light award and cub scout graduation certificate to Charles Neuman.

At the next pack meeting Jan. 19 all cubs and their families will meet at the church at 6:15 p.m. to go to the Alliance YMCA for a swimming party.

TWIN DEBUT — Twin debutantes Andrea, left, and Adrienne Gray, of Kansas City, Mo., pose in their ball gowns at International Debutantes Ball at the Astor Hotel in New York. They were among the 49 young women who were presented to society at the annual ball. The twins are daughters of Mrs. Ann Gray and Stewart Sill Gray of Kansas City and New York.

Two Auto Thefts Probed by Police

The parking lot at the rear of the Ohio Bar & Grill, 616 E. State St., was the scene of two investigations stemming from auto thefts over the weekend.

Arthur Tasher of RD 3, Salem, reported his car was stolen from that location. Tasher's wife, Geraldine, parked the car behind the tavern Saturday. When she returned at 7 p.m., she discovered the auto was missing.

Sunday morning at 8 city police recovered a stolen car in the same lot and returned it to the owner, Delmas Angle, 2453 Watson St., Alliance. The car was taken in mid-afternoon Saturday from a parking lot in the 200 block of E. Main St., Alliance, and abandoned in the Salem lot.

Winona Firemen Extinguish Blaze

Members of the Winona Volunteer Fire Department answered a call at 5:35 a.m. today to the home of Donald Blasiman of RD 2, Salem, on Rt. 9, where flames from a hole in the chimney ignited a timber near the kitchen floor.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Blasiman who was awakened by her 14-month-old son, Michael. After putting a bottle of milk on the kitchen stove to warm, she went to the basement to tend the furnace and found the cellar filled with smoke.

Firemen extinguished the blaze which caused damage of about $100.

Kiwanis Club Sets Meeting, Installation

Newly-installed President Vince Moore will outline club objectives for the new year when Kiwanis members meet for their luncheon meeting Thursday noon at the Memorial Building.

Wives of members will be guests at the club's installation dinner Jan. 10 at St. Paul School. Charter Merrill is in charge of reservations.

WRONG IDENTIFICATION

Walter Neal Thompson, 21, of RD 1, Rogers, was one of two youths bound over to the Columbiana County Grand Jury Thursday at a burglary hearing held in Eastern County Court at East Palestine. A story Friday erroneously identified him as David L. Thompson, who is a brother. David, who provided bond for his brother, was not involved in the case. The other defendant is Donald G. Manis, 19, of Salem.

Rockefeller Has Adopted Hare-and-Tortoise Strategy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has adopted a hare-and-tortoise strategy in his quest for the 1964 GOP presidential nomination, reports reaching here indicated today.

The idea appears to be that Rockefeller will hang back, letting such other GOP stars as Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, Gov. George Romney of Michigan and Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania put on whatever burst of political speed they desire.

Then in the stretch Rockefeller, with that massive New York delegation propelling him, will romp to certain nomination or so his backers feel sure.

In line with this, Rockefeller is keeping comparatively quiet; has few speaking engagements outside New York, and is turning down a number of bids.

Officially, of course, Rockefeller has not entered the presidential competition, nor has Goldwater or Romney or Scranton.

The political betting is that Rockefeller will be in there fighting—and probably will get the nomination, barring some big change in the political picture.

For the present, Rockefeller strategists are passing the word that he thinks the GOP should remain flexible, giving full exposure to all its likely presidential possibilities and then pick the best man, a man with a positive approach.

"The governor," one said, "doesn't want to get in the position of assuming the mantle of the party nominee, or even the stance of a candidate for the nomination at this time."

Asked whether Rockefeller has shown any reluctance to come to grips with President Kennedy since the latter's rocking chair television interview — an event which struck even some Republican leaders as a political tour de force—the governor's backers scouted any such idea.

"He just does not want to assume the role of chief Republican antagonist to the President at this juncture," one said. "This is in line with his policy of not trying to put on the mantle of the nominee."

The Rockefeller high command obviously is bending its efforts to see that he does better in any future political combat than he did last November, when his reelection margin proved smaller than his 1958 plurality—529,000 as against 573,000.

Green Bay Garners Second Straight NFL Title 16-7

Giants Score on Blocked Kick

Nitschke Named Outstanding Player

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Green Bay did it again. Only this time it was closer.

Vince Lombardi's Packers did not humiliate the New York Giants Sunday in their 16-7 victory at frigid Yankee Stadium as they had done in their 37-0 rout last New Year's Eve in Green Bay. The net result was the same, though. The Packers still are champions of the National Football League.

The story of the game is told best by the voting for the most valuable player. No Jim Taylor. No Paul Hornung. No Y. A. Tittle. All were ignored. The award went to Ray Nitschke, the Packers' 6-foot-3, 220-pound ball hawk who may be the middle linebacker of all-star teams for the next 10 years.

Fumble Sets Up Touchdown
Nitschke recovered a Phil King fumble on the Giants' 28 late in the second period with the Packers holding a perilous 3-0 lead. Two plays later, after a 21-yard pass from Hornung to Boyd Dowler, Taylor charged headlong into the end zone on a 7-yard burst for Green Bay's only touchdown. Earlier Nitschke deflected a Tittle pass that was intercepted by Dan Currie.

Shortly after the Giants scored their only touchdown when Erich Barnes blocked Max McGee's punt and rookie Jim Collier of Arkansas recovered in the end zone, Nitschke swung into action again in the third period. He pounced on the ball on the Giants' 42 when Sam Horner fumbled a punt. Five plays later, Jerry Kramer kicked the second of his three field goals. The kicks traveled 26, 29 and 30 yards.

Can't Throw Long Passes
"You couldn't throw the long one on a day like this," said Coach Allie Sherman of the Giants whose club won the Eastern Conference title on the passing of Tittle. "Of course, it was the same for them."

It was 20 degrees at game time. The weather soon turned for the worse, dropping down to 17 with a 20-mile-an-hour wind blowing passes, punts, hats, dust and even the Packers bench (unoccupied) across the frozen turf.

The only points the Giants scored were turned in by the defense on the blocked punt by Barnes and the recovery by Collier.

The Giants stopped the first Packer drive in the first quarter and forced Lombardi to settle for a field goal. Then New York started to move with Tittle hitting Del Shofner twice and then King until Currie broke it up with an interception on the 10 and ran it back to the 40.

Although the Packers led all the way, ranging from 3-0 to 10-0, 10-7, 13-7 and finally 16-7, the Giants were in the ball game until Kramer kicked his third field goal with only 1:50 to play.

Wood Tossed Out of Tilt
Willie Wood, the Packers' all-star safety man, was thrown out of the game for striking an official, back judge Tom Kelleher, after he was called for pass interference in the third period. The official said it was an overt act that called for a disqualification. Wood gets an automatic $50 fine.

The championship, was the eighth for the Packers and their fifth victory in seven playoffs. They won three in 1929, 1930 and 1931 before the league was split into two divisions. The Giants now have lost four playoffs in a row and have a sad 3-10 record.

Each Packer gets $5,888.57 and each Giant $4,166.85 from the gross gate of $1,243,110, all records.

Rose Bowl Will Attract 100,000 Fans

Wisconsin Holds Light Drill Today, Meet USCT Tomorrow

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer
PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—

Southern California, the national collegiate football champion, and Wisconsin, a team determined to wipe out the stigma of past failures, marked time doing little today before their meeting in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day.

Southern Cal Coach John McKay and the Trojans boarded a couple of buses and traveled from their hotel headquarters in Los Angeles for a visit to the sprawling stadium here with its seating capacity of some 100,000.

Wisconsin Coach Mitt Bruhn scheduled a light loosening up drill on a practice field a few hundred yards from the Rose Bowl, but otherwise the Badgers remained in seclusion at a monastery retreat in neighboring San Marino.

The Trojans, who rolled up 10 straight victories en route to the Nation's No. 1 ranking and the post season classic, appeared relaxed amidst a quiet air of optimism despite what McKay calls "probably our worst physical shape of the year."

McKay, disturbed earlier by the anticipated loss of Ron Heller, a speedy halfback who injured his knee in practice last Thursday, said Heller was able to run Sunday and indications were that he would be able to play Tuesday. The Badgers moved from their Pasadena Hotel headquarters to the monastery Sunday with all hands in sound physical shape. However, they will be hurt by the loss of guards Dion Kempthorn and Jon Hohman, who were left behind in Wisconsin because of ailments when the squad flew to California.

Bruhn and his players are bent on atoning for Wisconsin's 7-0 loss to Southern Cal in the 1953 Rose Bowl game and the 44-8 humiliation by Washington on the 1960 Pasadena trip.

The kickoff is set for 5 p.m. EST. The game will be telecast and broadcast nationally (NBC).

Bearcats Battle Houston, Then Wichita

Unbeaten Cincinnati Seeks 28th Straight Wednesday

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

With the mad annual whirligig of Holiday tournaments out of the way, college basketball settles down to normal this week. Most of the conference races get under way and the Missouri Valley resumes its chase of Cincinnati.

The Bearcats, national college-ate champions the last two years and the MVC titleholders three years in a row, have won 27 straight games and where it will stop nobody knows.

Coach Ed Jucker's outfit goes after No. 28 Wednesday against Houston, then opens its league season against Wichita Saturday. The team probably will be without the services of 6-foot-8 Dale Heidtting, who injured an ankle last week.

Since sophomore Ron Krick, who was counted on to fill the vacancy created by Paul Hogue's graduation, also is out, the Bearcats could be ripe for a kill. Wichita, especially, boasting a 9-2 record with seven straight victories, appears dangerous. Further, Coach Ralph Miller's Shockers already have knocked two teams—Arizona State and Ohio State—from the undefeated list. Wichita polished off the Buckeyes 71-54 last Saturday.

Cincinnati, 9-0 for the season, ranks No. 1 in the Associated Press poll, and Ohio State is No. 2. Here's a rundown on the other major conferences:

BIG TEN—Illinois, No. 4 team in the country, won the Holiday Festival in New York, whipped West Virginia 92-74 in the final, and looks ready to make things rough for Ohio State.

SOUTHEASTERN—This one opens Saturday with the four top teams clawing at each other. Kentucky (7-2), No. 5 team in the country, entertains Georgia Tech (7-0), and Auburn, (8-0), which won the Sugar Bowl Tournament with a 71-69 decision over Houston, faces No. 10 Mississippi State (7-2).

SOUTHWEST—Southern Methdist appears to be the class of the league, with a 5-0 record although Texas A&M, the Jonesboro Classic winner—67-53 over Tulane—has a strong entry.

BIG EIGHT—Kansas won the league pre-season tournament with a 90-88, four overtime squeaker over Kansas State. Kansas opens against powerful Colorado Saturday and that should provide a definite line on how far the Jayhawks can go.

BIG SIX—UCLA (10-2), boasting eight straight victories and a 68-64 decision over Colorado State U. in the final of the Los Angeles Classic, now takes over the favorite's spot. Southern California, No. 7 in the current AP poll, lost twice in the tournament.

WESTERN ATHLETIC—The league chase doesn't start for another week, but sixth-ranked Arizona State (9-1) is the favorite. The Sun Devils won the Queen City tournament, turning back Canisius in the final, 67-63.

ATLANTIC COAST—Duke (8-2), which topped all the way from second to eighth in the AP poll, clobbered Wake Forest, 113-87, the defending champion in a non-league game.

IVY—Penn and Princeton are the co-favorites, each with 7-1 non-league records. Lo and behold they clash in their league opener at Penn Saturday.

SOUTHERN—The race is in full swing with West Virginia leading with a 3-0 record.

A fantastic total of 62 college tournaments wound up Saturday night. Loyola of Chicago, No. 3 in the country and the highest scoring team around, won the All-College tournament at Oklahoma City with a 93-92 victory over Wyoming to run its record to 10-0.

OSU Cagers Lose First, Cincy Is 9-0

Ohio Has Only 2 Unbeaten Squads

By FRITZ HOWELL

Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's collegiate cagers head into the 1963 season of their campaign with only two of 41 teams boasting unblemished records.

Cincinnati's Bearcats, NCAA champs the last two years and currently rated the best in the land, head the Ohio list with a 9-0 record. Akron is 7-0 to round out the untarnished contingent. Ohio State's surprising Buckeyes, winners of seven straight after being shorn of much of last season's top talent, were victimized 71-54 by Wichita's Shockers Saturday night. The loss jeopardizes the second-place ranking of Fred Taylor's team, which had fought its way from nowhere into top contention in the national poll.

The Bucks, behind 24-20 at the half and unable to cope with a fast-break offense in the second session, were the fourth Big Ten team to fall before Wichita's 10-2 Shockers. Ohio State entertains Brigham Young tonight at St. John Arena and opens defense of its Big Ten crown Saturday as host to Minnesota.

Cincinnati held Ohio University to 14 first-half points and then rolled to a 73-43 win over the Bobcats for its 27th straight win over two seasons. George Wilson scored 26 for the Bearcats — his all-time high.

Wittenberg, tied with Akron and Ohio Wesleyan at 5-0 in the three-team race for the Ohio Conference crown, wrote a glowing new chapter into its cage history Saturday. With Al Thrasher hitting on 10 of 11 from the field, the Springfield team made it 61 victories in a row at home with a 58-41 verdict over Westminster, Pa., the No. 1 small college team in America.

Although many early-season games were postponed or canceled because of snow and wintry blasts which made travel hazardous, the Ohio clubs found time to play 134 out-of-state teams. The Buckeye teams won 74 and lost 60 — many of the defeats coming in the holiday tournaments.

Bowling Green was one of the big tournament victims. The injury - and-virus-stricken Falcons suffered their two losses of the campaign in the Quaker City meet at Philadelphia.

In the various classics, Hiram won the Alliance tourney; Ashland won the Ashland fixture for the third time in five years; Miami upset Penn State 73-66 to take the Alpine honors at Charleston, W. Va.; Toledo finished seventh at Oklahoma City; Ohio Wesleyan won the consolation game at Baltimore's Loyola Invitational; Xavier dropped the Sugar Bowl consolation at New Orleans, and Findlay was beaten by Indiana Central at Indianapolis.

The Ohioans greet the New Year this week with a 34-game slate.

Cincinnati is host to Houston Wednesday night — but the eye-catcher pops up Saturday at the Queen City when Wichita — conqueror of Ohio State — goes against the Bearcats in their Ohio Lair.

Rising Wages, Slower Climbing Prices Bode Well For Consumer

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (A.)—Even before 1963 labor negotiations get under way employers can count on an increased wage bill of around 1 billion. That's the rough value of deferred wage boosts due to go into effect during the new year.

More than 3 million employees will share in these already-agreed wage increases. Negotiations for higher pay rates, on contracts that will either expire or be subject to reopening, are scheduled for at least another 3 million workers—mostly in the steel, rubber, telephone, electrical and railroad industries.

That's a capsule picture of the big labor contracts. It doesn't count the thousands of smaller labor-management agreements covering millions more workers. Steel, which provided the biggest single labor story in 1962, could well occupy the spotlight again in the coming year when the industry's wages and other labor cost issues are reopenable in May.

The steelworkers, after settling last year without a wage hike, are likely to come back for one in the coming year. Another labor explosion is possible because steel industry profits have been depressed by lagging production.

Steel labor negotiations wound up peacefully enough in 1962 when Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg, later elevated to a seat on the Supreme Court, succeeded in getting President David J. McDonald of the United Steel Workers to accept a modest settlement an unprecedented three months ahead of contract expiration.

Industry efforts immediately thereafter to raise prices resulted in one of the most spectacular domestic stories of the year. President Kennedy opened fire on the steel producers so fiercely that in a matter of days they folded, cancelling their proposed boosts.

If the steel workers get a big 1963 pay boost it may blow the lid along the entire wage front.

Unemployment still is the chief problem on the labor front. At year-end 1962 the jobless totals were running close to what they were a year earlier. Pressures on the Kennedy administration to do more about it, most recently applied by New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, a potential Kennedy foe for the presidency in 1964, can be expected to mount.

For their part the unions look upon the unemployment levels, running close to 6 per cent of the labor force, as a signal to work harder than ever for a 35-hour week. The issue will rise more and more in collective bargaining and in Congress.

The biggest 1962 strikes occurred in the aerospace, airline, railroad, construction and maritime industries. Kennedy invoked the Taft-Hartley Law emergency provisions four times to end major strikes.

The aerospace dispute centered around unions' demands for a union shop, or compulsory union membership. The unions lost out at three major industry producers but were still pushing the issue at year-end at the big Lockheed and Boeing missile and space firms.

Demands of the railroads for a free hand to curb "featherbedding" their term for work they claim is no longer needed — are still an unresolved issue.

Teamsters' boss James R. Hoffa continued to make news. He was put on trial for an alleged $1 million payoff but the jury couldn't reach a verdict and a mistrial resulted.

While 1963 looks like a potentially explosive labor year, the following year of 1964 may top them all. Practically every major union, including Hoffa's teamsters and Walter Reuther's auto workers, as well as steel again, will be up to bat for gains in a presidential election year atmosphere.

Centennial Park Pavilion Reservations To Be Taken

Reservations for Pavilions for the 1963 season at Centennial Park will be accepted starting at 9 a.m. Wednesday, the Park Commission announces.

All reservations will be taken at the Park Department office at the Memorial Building. Office hours are from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

LEETONIA — The Women's Society of Christian Service met Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Elby Morris, with Miss Hazel Ginter and Miss Gussie Ginter as associate hostesses.

Mrs. Morris had charge of the devotion and Miss Gussie Ginter gave a review on the book, "Miracle In The Mountain" by Harnett T. Kane.

Plans were completed for the refreshments for the New Years Eve party to be held in the Leetonia Methodist Church with members of the Washingtonville Methodist Church as guests.

Lunch was served by the hostesses.

MR. AND MRS. WILSON B. Corna of 375 Columbia St. announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Linda Lee, to Pfc. Richard E. Kyser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kyser of Lisbon Rd.

A graduate of Leetonia High School and Youngstown School of Cosmetology, Miss Corna is co-owner of the Snip 'N Set Salon in Leetonia. Also a graduate of Leetonia High School Pfc. Kyser, a former employee of the A & P Co. at Salem, is now serving with the United States Army in Heilbronn, Germany.

The couple will be married at an open church wedding at 7 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 12, in the First Methodist Church in Leetonia. A reception will follow the wedding in the social room of the church.

MRS. AMELIA CHARNESKY of Youngstown visited her mother Mrs. Jessie Cross of Somer St. on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Lester Luckenbaugh and daughter Penny of Hanover, Pa., spent Christmas with her mother, Mrs. Jessie Cross and sister, Penny Lou.

Mrs. Amelia Nigra of Belle-vern, Pa., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Jessie Cross.

Capt. James Rogers spent the holidays with his wife, the former Joanna Smith, and family. Capt. Rogers has been stationed in Greenland.

The restaurant section of the Country Store is getting to be a mighty popular place these days. Where else could you get so much really good food for your money.

We do not see how much we can make but how much we can give you for your money. Actually it's as cheap to eat here as it would be at home. Our big features are steaks prepared at no extra cost. Our full quarter lb. hamburgers and that delicious Yuban coffee, General Foods finest made especially for restaurants and hotels.

Matter of Fact

LITTLE LIZ

Lisbon Social

By ETTA MAE ALEXANDER
The 18th annual Yuletide Charity Ball was held Saturday evening at the David Anderson High School.

One hundred and sixty couples enjoyed dancing to the music of Everett Neill and his orchestra of Pittsburgh.

The theme of the decor was the "New Year."

Co-chairmen of the dance committee for this year were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gallo and Miss Velma Brinker.

Miss Betty McKenna was chairman of the decorating committee, and Tom McKenna was in charge of securing the orchestra.

Other members of the committee are Miss Meretta Ikirt, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Steitz, Mr. and Mrs. William Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Gallo, Miss Betty Liggitt, Miss Diane Armstrong, Miss Joann Klug, Miss Virginia Gallo, Miss Irene Gallo, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dowd, Wendell Cole, Miss Esther Sell and Larry Hiner.

The committee will meet Jan. 6 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gallo of E. High St. to transact the business of this year's dance, to decide to what charity the proceeds will be given and set a tentative date for the 1963 dance.

ONE HUNDRED and forty members and friends attended the installation ceremony of Job's Daughters at the Masonic Temple Friday evening. Diane Boso, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Boso of E. Washington St., was installed as honor queen.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. William Bake and Hoyt Sexton, guardian and associate guardian. Miss Sandy North, retiring honored queen, was unable to be present because of illness. Miss Gloria Dell Tritten, past honored queen, presided in her absence and also served as installing officer.

Honored guests introduced were visiting princess, Mrs. Bake; Mr. Sexton; Miss Grace Todd, past guardian; Ray Beers, past associate guardian and worthy patron of Iva Chapter; Mrs. Wanda Cunningham, Mrs. John Schnader, Mrs. Charles Homan, members of the council; Arthur Tritten, worshipful master of New Lisbon Lodge No. 65; Mrs. Ray Beers, worthy matron of Iva Chapter, and several past matrons of Iva Chapter.

"ONLY A ROSE" WAS sung by Mrs. Schnader, prior to the intermission. She was accompanied by Miss Barbara Eason of Bethel 61 of East Liverpool.

Mrs. John Blocksom sang two solos, "On Christmas Day, in the Morning" and "No Candle Mass There", accompanied by Miss Eileen McCullough. Nick Carter of Warren, cousin of the honored queen, sang, "Savior, Like a Shepherd Lead Us", accompanied by Miss Eason.

Installing officers who assisted Miss Tritten, were Miss Janet Ferguson of East Liverpool, guide; Miss Suzanne Tulbure of Lisbon, marshal; Miss Suzanne Flint of Youngstown, chaplain; Miss Gerri Goodwin of Youngstown, recorder; Miss Mary Alice Detimore of Salem, senior custodian; Miss Mitzi Garrett of Salem, junior custodian; Miss Eason, musician.

Other officers installed were Miss Joyce Homan, senior princess; Miss Kathleen Arnold, junior princess; Miss Nancy Sexton, guide; Miss Candice Hill, marshal; Miss Diane Cunningham, chaplain; Miss Candy Arter, treasurer; Miss Georgeann Sexton, recorder; Miss Nancy Spooner, librarian; Miss Ann Carnes, musician; Miss Julia Smith, first messenger; Miss Linda Morgan, second messenger; Miss Dawn Richardson, third messenger; Miss Jennifer Mason, fourth messenger; Miss Suzanne Mattix, fifth messenger; Miss Gwen Miller, senior custodian; Miss Jayne McBride, junior custodian; Miss Judy Chapman, inner guard; Miss Janice McCaughin, outer guard; Miss Kathleen Kelly, registrar; Miss Diane Wilhelm, flag bearer; Miss Gale Schnader, prompter; Miss Suzanne Tulbure, grand

During the CROWNING ceremony, Mrs. Blocksom sang, "Oh Holy Night." Rev. Paul T. Gerrard, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, spoke briefly, using as his subject, the honored queen's theme, "Happiness."

Mrs. Kermit Riffle of Salem, aunt of the honored queen, presided at the tea service, with Miss Sandy Glass of Wellsville and Mrs. Boso presiding at the punch bowl.

Mrs. Charles Dickey of Signal received club associates Thursday evening for their Christmas party and gift exchange.

Prizes for cards were awarded to Mrs. Donald Ward and Mrs. Alan Webber.

The next club meeting will be Jan. 23, with Miss Barbara Wetzel of W. Maple St.

GUEST OF MISS VINNIE Warner of W. Washington St. for the holidays is her niece, Mrs. L. H. Sauers of Lima.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham Kearney of E. Lincoln Way spent the Christmas holidays and weekend with their son, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Kearney of Indianapolis, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Blair of W. Washington St. have returned from a visit with their son, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Blair of Marietta.

AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Another 12 months of television history has been made—thousands and thousands of hours of entertainment, news and education carried by electronic magic into the nation's homes.

There was an amazing total of 3,831 of these hours on network television during the peak evening viewing hours alone. Most of the programs were run of the mill, some were distressingly bad, but some were superb.

Eight Orphaned Brothers, Sisters Remain Together

KANNAPOLIS, N.C. (AP)—Eight brothers and sisters begin a new life together today at the Church of God orphanage due to the efforts of a welfare worker, Miss Andrea Triplett.

Another brother, now 10 months old, will join them when he is 2. On Oct. 7, Abner Avery Bentley, 67, a retired carpenter, and his wife 40, packed their children into the family truck for a trip over a winding road near Morganton.

Bentley lost control of the vehicle and it rolled down a steep decline. When officers arrived they found Bentley and his wife dead. The children escaped serious injury.

The children were moved out of their four-room home to the home of an uncle. He was unable to carry the heavy burden and they were scattered to six foster homes in mid-November.

Miss Triplett, 21, the Caldwell County welfare worker who handled the case, found that the Church of God orphanage would accept all the Bentley orphans except 10-month-old Terry Wayne. "I talked to them as a group. I explained to them this may be the only way they could remain together," Miss Triplett said.

The children are Abner Jr., 14; R. C., 13; Bonnie, 10; Jerry, 9; Darlene 7; A. B., 6; H. T. 5; Danny Gene, 4 and Terry Wayne.

KILLED WHILE SLEDDING

CLEVELAND (AP)—A 6-year-old boy injured when a sled went into the path of an automobile in suburban Warrensville Heights Thursday died late Saturday in Suburban Community Hospital.

Michael De Vand Heerlein was with his sister, Debbie, 7, when the sled shot off a slope into Green Road. The girl was reported in critical condition.

MERCHANTS WARNED

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Nearly 40 Dayton and Montgomery County merchants who opened for business Sunday were warned that Ohio's Sunday closing laws will be strictly enforced in this area beginning next Sunday.

Receiving the warning were operators of hardware, discount, novelty and auto parts stores.

There were fewer dramatic shows, but there was real drama. It came when the cameras were focused on the blastoff of manned space shots, and on the face of the President of the United States alerting the public to a national crisis.

More people watched television than ever before, and the more they watched, the more critical they became.

Critics went on hammering about the quality of television, calling for more culture and education. But viewers continued to turn to their sets primarily for entertainment: for sports, Westerns, parlor games, stories about doctors and comedies.

Violence diminished, children's programs improved in quality, villains were more likely to be mentally ill than evil for evil's sake. Commercialism tended to be more soft-sell than hard, except in the household remedial area.

All in all, it was a busy television year. It reached heights on some occasions. On a day-to-day basis, it managed to amuse most of the people some of the time. Not a bad record.

Recommended today: "Match Game," premiere, NBC, 4-4:25 p.m. (EST) — new game show with Gene Rayburn, host; King Orange Jamboree Parade, ABC, 9-10—folk song festival from Miami, Fla.; "Tonight Show," NBC, 11:15-1 a.m.—live pick-ups of New Year's celebrations from Times Square, and musical program.

Three Quadruplets Die After Birth

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Th wife of an aerospace engineer gave birth to quadruplets Sunday. Three of them died.

The fourth boy was reported in critical condition today.

"We were both told together of the deaths," said the father, Alvin Spector, 27. "Of course we were very sad to hear it. There was nothing we could do. The hospital did everything they could. We just had to accept the fact."

The three boys and a girl were the first children born to the Spectors, childhood sweethearts who married two years ago.

MURDER CHARGES FILED

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A charge of first-degree murder has been filed against Mrs. Mattie Lee, 55, of Columbus in the shotgun slaying early Sunday of William Shannon, 53.

Police said Mrs. Lee called them several hours after Shannon was shot in his East Side apartment and said she had killed him because he had beaten her.

ESCAPEE CAPTURED

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Gary Krause, 21, of North Madison, escaped from Lake County authorities, was back in jail today.

Deputies found him Sunday in an abandoned cabin in a wooded area in South Madison. Krause tried to run, but he had no shoes and didn't get very far in the snow, the sheriff's office reported.

Victim Warned By Smart Stick-Up Man

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) — Pharmacist John Swire heard an authoritative voice when he answered the telephone at his drug store:

"This is an agent of the FBI. We have information that your store is going to be held up in a few minutes. We have the place under surveillance and we will arrest the man as soon as he comes out. Co-operate with him in every way so we can get evidence."

A shabbily dressed man walked in a few minutes later and announced that he was staging a holdup.

He took $50 and some narcotics and calmly walked out.

Swire is still waiting for the FBI.

FIRM AWARDED CONTRACT

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The Good-year Aviation Products Division announced today it has received a contract to produce wheel and brake assemblies for the Boeing 707-320C intercontinental jet transport.

The value of the contract with the Transport Division of the Boeing Co., Renton, Wash., was not disclosed.

ACCEPT NEW CONTRACT

CINCINNATI (AP) — Voters representing about 2,500 employees of six major Cincinnati hotels have voted 673-165 to accept a proposed new contract.

A spokesman for the Cincinnati Hotel Employees Council said Sunday's vote cleared the way to final clearance by unions with only a few hotel workers — electricians, carpenters, painters, barbers and musicians. No details were disclosed.

GET GOVERNMENT POST

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Norman H. Dohn, who joined the Columbus Dispatch as a reporter in 1948 and became an editorial writer nine years later, has accepted a position with the U.S. Information Agency.

Dohn will be assigned overseas as a foreign service reserve officer after two years of service in the USIA Washington headquarters.
